How did the French Revolution impact France?

Below, you will be exploring the internal impacts of the French Revolution. Internal impacts are the effects happening to the country of France and its citizens.

Directions: Read the excerpts and respond to the corresponding questions.

| End of Absolute Monarchy: The French Revolution dealt a death-blow to absolute monarchies all over Europe… |
| Demise of the Feudal System: The Revolution held up equality as an ideal for all the citizens of France and forcibly eliminated the traditional rights and privileges of the aristocratic class… |
| Administrative and judicial reforms: The greater freedom and equality made society more meritocratic [based on ability and skill rather than family name or wealth]. The Civil Code remains the basis of French law and has influenced other European legal systems… |
| Freedom of religion particularly for Protestants and Jews. Wherever Napoleon’s armies went, Jews were emancipated and given the opportunity to participate as equals in European society… |

According to this excerpt, how did the French Revolution impact absolute monarchy?

According to this excerpt, how did the French Revolution impact social classes in France?

According to this excerpt, how did the French Revolution impact legal codes?

According to this excerpt, how did the French Revolution impact religious rights?

. . . By 1799, however, Frenchmen had had the experience of enjoying, at least in theory, freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Education had been reorganized along the lines which it still follows in most modern states—free, compulsory, universal, and secular. The Revolution had given rise to an extensive, if not always great, periodical press. Lack of opportunities had yielded to the “careers open to talents” already mentioned, and such talents were encouraged and brought to fruition through public prizes, state patronage, and similar devices. Moreover, while there had been few museums and libraries prior to 1789, the revolutionaries established many more, planned still additional ones, and endeavored to integrate them with the educational system. . .

According to John Hall Stewart, what are four changes brought about by the French Revolution by 1799?

Using your prior knowledge from stages 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the French Revolution, as well as the excerpts above, respond to the question below.

How was the French Revolution a turning point for both France and the rest of the world?
How did the French Revolution impact the growth of nationalist feeling and revolutionary movements?

Objective: Students will analyze how the French Revolution impacted the growth of nationalist feeling and revolutionary movements.

Below, you will be exploring the external impacts of the French Revolution. External impacts are the effects on the French Revolution on countries and people outside of France.

Directions: Read the excerpts and respond to the corresponding questions.

. . However, the majority of Europeans and non-Europeans came to see the Revolution as much more than a bloody tragedy. These people were more impressed by what the Revolution accomplished than by what it failed to do. They recalled the Revolution’s abolition of serfdom, slavery, inherited privilege, and judicial torture; its experiments with democracy; and its opening of opportunities to those who, for reasons of social status or religion, had been traditionally excluded. One of the most important contributions of the French Revolution was to make revolution part of the world’s political tradition. The French Revolution continued to provide instruction for revolutionaries in the 19th and 20th centuries...

1. What does the excerpt, “One of the most important contributions of the French Revolution was to make revolution part of the world’s political tradition. The French Revolution continued to provide instruction for the revolutionaries in the 19th and 20th centuries...” mean?

2. Given your prior knowledge of the French Revolution, what treatises, decrees, declarations, and constitutions from the French Revolution may have “provide[d] instruction for revolutionaries in the 19th and 20th centuries...”?

3. What specific rights or conditions did these treatises, decrees, declarations and constitutions ask for?

4. How might having the example of the French Revolution encourage other nations to mount their own revolutions?
And 200 years later Chinese students, who weeks before had fought their government in Tiananmen Square, confirmed the contemporary relevance of the French Revolution when they led the revolutionary bicentennial parade in Paris on July 14, 1989. . . .

In addition to providing instructions and guidelines for other societies who wanted to revolt against their governments, the French Revolution also impacted the growth of Nationalism. Nationalism is understood as strong feelings or support for one's nation. The French Revolution influenced people to have a sense of belonging to and protection of their nation.

Directions: Read the excerpt below. Respond to the corresponding questions.

The French Revolution (1789–1799) was a period of political and social upheaval in France and Europe, during which the French government structure, previously an absolute monarchy, underwent radical change to forms based on Enlightenment principles of republic, citizenship, and inalienable rights.

This revolution sparked five wars between the well-trained armies of Napoleonic France and neighbors including Prussia and Austria. From 1803 to 1814, Napoleon ruled over a large section of Europe. During that time he and the ideals of the French Revolution greatly affected the regions he controlled. The revolution’s nationalistic call for “liberty, equality, and fraternity” and a government ruled by the will of the French people, instead of a royal family with connections outside of France, inspired similar feelings in regions occupied by Napoleon’s troops. The famous slogan “liberty, equality, fraternity” and the Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen were thought valid not only for the French people but for all peoples.

According to this excerpt, how did the French Revolution encourage nationalism?
Modern nationalism began in France during the revolutionary decade and was spread by revolutionary and Napoleonic armies to the rest of Europe. Many Europeans adopted this idea because nationalism defended the right of a nation to resist French control. After the fall of Napoleon and the remaking of European boundaries at the Congress of Vienna in 1815, nationalists turned their ire on foreign rulers: the Austrians in Italy, the Russians in Poland, and so on. From Derry (Northern Ireland) to Danang (Vietnam) and from Helsinki to the Cape of Good Hope, this struggle for national liberation became one of the most important themes of nineteenth- and twentieth-century European and world politics. Nationalism meant the adherence to a universal progressive idea, looking toward a common future of freedom and equality, not toward a past characterized by authoritarianism and inequality.
How did the French Revolution impact the revolutionary movements in Haiti and Latin America?

Directions: Examine the maps below and respond to the prompts.

Map A

Map B

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Observations</th>
<th>Observations</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Inferences</td>
<td>Inferences</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

What might have caused the changes seen between Map A and Map B?
French, Latin American and Haitian Revolutions: A Timeline

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year Range</th>
<th>Events</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1789-1799</td>
<td>French Revolution</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1791-1804</td>
<td>Haiti fights independence war and wins independence from France</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1810-1818</td>
<td>Argentina fights independence war and wins independence from Spain</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1820</td>
<td>Columbia fights independence war and wins independence from Spain</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1821-1824</td>
<td>Venezuela, Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia fights independence war and wins independence from Spain</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year Range</th>
<th>Events</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1810-1820</td>
<td>Mexico fights independence war and wins independence from Spain</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Haitian Revolution

Prior to its independence, Haiti was a French colony known as St. Domingue. St. Domingue’s slave-based sugar and coffee industries had been fast-growing and successful, and by the 1760s it had become the most profitable colony in the Americas. With the economic growth, however, came increasing exploitation of the African slaves who made up the overwhelming majority of the population.

The Haitian Revolution was the result of a long struggle on the part of the slaves in the French colony of St. Domingue, but was also initiated by the free Mulattoes who had long faced the trials of being denoted as semi-citizens. This revolt was not unique, as there were several rebellions of its kind against the institution of plantation slavery in the Caribbean, but the Haitian Revolution the most successful. This had a great deal to do with the influence of the French Revolution, as it helped to inspire events in Haiti. The Haitian Revolution would go on to serve as a model for those affected by slavery throughout the world.

There were three distinct classes in St. Domingue. First, there were the Whites, who were in control. Then there were the free Mulattoes, who straddled a very tenuous position in Haitian society. While they enjoyed a degree of freedom, they were repressed by the conservative White power structure that recognized them only as being people of color. Free Mulattoes were being outlawed from holding office and were totally excluded from Haitian society. Mulattoes were allowed to own land but society’s restraints on Mulattoes made it highly unlikely that they could do anything with that land. Next came the slaves who, in Haiti, suffered under some of the harshest treatment found in the Caribbean. Slaves in Haiti were legally considered to be property of the public and with little choice, yielded obedience.

The French Revolution provided the Mulattoes and slaves with an opportunity and an inspiration after having witnessed the successful insurrection in France against the government’s long-standing denial of equal representation of the Commons to that of the Nobility and Clergy. This was such a revolution in the structure of French society that its news spread like wildfire and was exactly the stimulus the slaves and Mulattoes in Haiti needed to inspire their revolt.
Based on the excerpt above, why did the mulattoes resent the French?

Based on the excerpt above, why did the enslaved Africans resent the French?

What impact did the French Revolution have on the start of the Haitian revolution?

Revolutionary Leader: Toussaint L'Ouverture
Years: 1743-1803
Country: Haiti
Colonial Power Fought: France

Toussaint L'Ouverture was one of the leaders of the Haitian revolution and the first black man to become governor of a colony.

Toussaint-Louverture was born into slavery in approximately 1743 in the French colony of Saint Domingue. He belonged to a small and privileged class of slaves employed by masters as personal servants. The Count de Breda, Toussaint's owner, actively encouraged him to learn to read and write. He developed a passion for books and his readings were to become a great influence in his political life. Toussaint was freed from slavery at around the age of 33 and colonial records show that he became a land and slave owner himself.

How did Toussaint L'Ouverture learn to read?

The French Revolution of 1789 had a powerful impact on Saint Domingue. A complex civil war broke out in 1790 when free men of color claimed that they too were French citizens and should be allowed to enjoy the rights proclaimed in the Declaration of the Rights of Man.

A complex civil war broke out in 1790 when free men of color claimed that they too were French citizens. What does this reveal about
The influence of the French Revolution on Haitians?

The following year, on 22 August 1791, Toussaint was one of the main organizers of a slave revolt that would eventually be known as the Haitian Revolution, the first and only victorious slave revolt in history.

In 1793, representatives of the French revolutionary government in Paris offered freedom to slaves who joined them in the fight against counter-revolutionaries and foreign invaders. The following year these orders were ratified by the revolutionary legislature in Paris, which abolished slavery throughout all French territories. This was a determining factor in Toussaint’s decision to join the French army. Under his increasingly influential leadership, the French defeated the British and Spanish forces.

Why did the French revolutionary government offer freedom to slaves in Haiti?

What impact did this decision have on Toussaint? What role did Toussaint play in the French revolutionary wars against the British and Spanish?

Having made himself ruler of the island, Toussaint did not wish to surrender power to Paris and ruled Saint Domingue as an autonomous entity. In 1801 he issued a Constitution for the island, which provided for autonomy and established Toussaint as governor for life. It abolished slavery and aspired to put in place a multiracial society composed of blacks, whites and mulattos.

What was significant about the constitution that Toussaint created for his island? How did the rights promised differ from life under French rule?

When Napoleon Bonaparte came to power in France he aimed to return the Caribbean colonies to their earlier profitability as plantation colonies. In 1802, he dispatched an expedition of French soldiers to the island, lead by his brother in law Charles Leclerc, to reestablish French authority and slavery. Leclerc arrested Toussaint and deported him to France where he was imprisoned in Fort de Joux and died on April 7, 1803.

What happened to Haiti when Napoleon Bonaparte came into power?

For a few months the island remained under Napoleonic rule. However, the French soldiers soon fell victim to weapons and disease and surrendered to the indigenous army in November 1803. On January 1, 1804, the colony became the first black republic under the name of Haiti.

Homework:

1. How did the French Revolution impact the Haitian Revolution?

2. Why is the Haitian Revolution considered a turning point in world history?
Discontent in Latin America

How did the social and ethnic structures in Spanish colonies lead to discontent?

- Creoles → resented being treated as second class citizens by the Peninsulares
- Mestizos and Mulattoes → angered that they were not treated as citizens and did not have the same power as whites
- Native Americans and Africans → angered by enslavement and inhumane treatment

Was everyone in the Spanish colonies angry for the same reasons? Explain.

In the 1700s, educated creoles read the work of Enlightenment thinkers. Many creoles were sent to Europe to study as well. While there, young creoles like Simon Bolivar were inspired by the ideals of a revolution and national sovereignty or the authority of a state to govern itself or another state.

How did many creoles like Simon Bolivar come into contact with ideas of revolution and freedom?
As we learned earlier, Napoleon invaded Spain in 1808, ousted the Spanish king and placed his brother Joseph in control of Spain and its colonies. Many in Latin America saw this as a moment of weakness and an opportunity to reject foreign rule and demand freedom from the colonial crown.

Why did Latin American leaders decide to fight for their freedom after 1808 versus than at an earlier point?

1. José de San Martín: Revolutions in Argentina, Chile and Peru

Revolutionary Leader: José de San Martín
Years: 1778-1850
Country: Argentina, Chile, Peru
Colonial Power Fought: Spain

José de San Martín was a South American soldier and statesman who played an important role in winning the independence of several South American countries from Spain. José de San Martín was born at Yapeyú, a village on the northern frontier of Argentina, where his father was an official of the Spanish colonial government. At the age of 7, San Martín returned to Spain with his parents. He entered the Royal Academy as a cadet and was educated there with sons of the nobility of Spain. As a member of the Spanish army, he fought in some of the campaigns against French forces in the Peninsular War and by 1811 had acquired the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Hearing of the revolt against Spain in his native Argentina, San Martín resigned from the Spanish army in 1812 and sailed for Buenos Aires to join the patriot forces. He took a prominent part in organizing Argentine troops and soon became military governor of the north to organize defense against Spanish troops in Upper Peru. In 1814, he secured the governorship of the province of Cuyo at the foot of the Andes. Here for 3 years he recruited and trained his Army of the Andes, since he believed that Argentina could not be safely independent unless Spanish forces were dislodged from Chile, Peru, and Bolivia.

Why is it significant that San Martín resigned from the Spanish army? How might his military training become useful later?
In January 1817, San Martín led his army of Argentines and fugitives from Chile over the Andes and surprised the Spanish army in Chile. He made Chile completely free of Spanish troops by May 15, 1818, and began planning for an invasion of Peru. Within a year San Martín was able to occupy the capital, and on July 28, 1821, he proclaimed the independence of Peru from Spain. On August 3rd, he accepted the position of supreme protector of Peru.

What impact did San Martín have on Latin American Independence movements?

2. Simón Bolívar: Revolutions in Venezuela, Ecuador, Bolivia, Peru & Colombia (1810-1824)

Revolutionary Leader: Simón Bolívar
Years: 1783 – 1830
Country: Venezuela, Ecuador, Bolivia, Peru and Colombia
Colonial Power Fought: Spain

Simón Bolívar was a Venezuelan military leader who was instrumental in the revolutions against the Spanish empire. Born into wealth, Bolívar was sent to Spain for his education and quickly got involved in political life in Europe. After France invaded Spain in 1808, he became involved in the resistance movement and played a key role in the Spanish American fight for independence. When Napoleon named Joseph Bonaparte King of Spain and its colonies, which included Venezuela, Bolívar joined the resistance movement. The resistance group based in Caracas gained independence in 1810, and Bolívar traveled to Britain on a diplomatic mission.

Finally, Bolívar returned to Venezuela and began a campaign to wrest control of that country from the Spanish. He and his followers invaded Venezuela on May 14, 1813. Bolívar was hailed as El Libertador (The Liberator), though civil war soon erupted in the republic, forcing him to flee to Jamaica and seek foreign aid. There he wrote his famous "Letter From Jamaica," detailing his vision of a South American republic with a parliamentary setup modeled after England and a life-long president. In 1825, the "Republic of Bolivia" was created in honor of the inspirational leader, hailed by many as El Libertador (The Liberator).

3. Father Hidalgo: The Mexican Revolution (1810-1820)

Revolutionary Leader: Father Hidalgo
Years: 1753-1811
Country: Mexico
Colonial Power Fought: Spain

Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla led the Mexican independence movement against Spanish rule in 1810 and unleashed a torrent of political passions that rocked Mexico for the first sixty years of its history as a nation. Born in May 1753 in Guanajuato, Hidalgo entered the priesthood in 1779. For the next quarter of a century, he performed his duties as a spiritual shepherd, but also read texts on political theory.

How might reading political texts influence his future role as a revolutionary leader?

In 1808, Hidalgo became a leader of an underground independence movement centered around literary clubs where the talk centered on emerging ideas on nationalism and political liberty.
Using your prior knowledge of major events in 1808, why do you think Hidalgo chose to join an underground independence movement at this point?

When authorities moved to arrest him, he gathered together his followers and his parishioners and issued the “Grito de Dolores” on September 16, 1810, a de facto declaration of independence. He quickly gathered an insurgent army that rampaged through central Mexico. Almost immediately the violence turned on issues of race, and his high-minded revolution turned bloody and excessive.

The Grito de Dolores ("Cry of/from Dolores") was the battle cry of the Mexican War of Independence, uttered on September 16, 1810, by Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, a Roman Catholic priest from the small town of Dolores, near Guanajuato, Mexico. Shortly before dawn on September 16, 1810, Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla made a decision that revolutionized the course of Mexican history. Within hours, Hidalgo, a Catholic priest in the village of Dolores, ordered the arrest of Dolores-native Spaniards. Then Hidalgo rang the church bell as he customarily did to call the indians to mass. The message that Hidalgo gave to the indians and mestizos called them to retaliate against the hated gachopines or native Spaniards who had exploited and oppressed Mexicans for ten generations.

“My Children, a new dispensation comes to us today…Will you free yourselves? Will you recover the lands stolen 300 years ago from your forefathers by the hated Spaniards? We must act at once.”

The Grito de Dolores is considered the beginning of the Mexican War of Independence.

1. Why was the Grito de Dolores an important event?

2. Why might Hidalgo have delivered the Grito de Dolores in a public setting?

Homework:

1. Why was Napoleon’s 1808 invasion of Spain a trigger that encouraged Latin Americans to revolt?

2. How did the French Revolution impact the Latin American revolutions?